Special new UV oil finish

ALI is proud to present the latest addition to its family of finishes applied to the prestigious pre-finished solid wood parquet of its own production SuperPreMass and PreMass. Steady work at the company's R&D laboratories has led to the development of this special finish that combines natural oil's aesthetic appeal with the practical use and maintenance usually offered only by industrial finishes. While conserving all the attraction and natural look of solvent-free oil, ALI UV oil finish not only eliminates the costs and times necessary for the periodical application of nourishing oil to the floor but also stops the formation of hard-to-remove rings and white marks caused by prolonged accumulation of liquid on the surface. Each wooden element is coated with a layer of film that protects the fibre. Thanks to all these features, UV oil finish – available for four different kinds of wood and in both SuperPreMass and PreMass format – has already been greeted with success by numerous clients. Itlas

Materia, the success of simplicity

At first glance, it looks like untreated wood. That's the distinctive feature and secret to the success of Materia, a finish developed for Oak in the Tavole del Piave Collection by Itlas. This finish met with instant success when it was first presented at Saloni 2013, to the degree that Itlas decided to offer it in different collections for different types of wood, like Beech in the Assi del Consiglio or the Noce Daniela di Tavole del Piave. Materia is also proposed in the new 100% Oak Collection of pre-finished two-layer parquet with 10 mm thickness.

Colored pigments can be applied to the

UV varnish. The use of this varnish gives the floor a special natural effect with excellent resistance to dirt and wear at the same time. The application of natural colored pigments modifies the wood's original colors for adaptation to a wide range of interiors. The top surface of the floor is worked by a set of brushes that remove the grain's soft surface to leave the harder fiber intact. The effect obtained gives a particular naturalness to the finish. What's more, a special type leaves the marks of the saw teeth and drying in plain sight on the surface, which are then beveled and softened by a light sanding by hand. Materia is clearly distinguished by this sawn-effect typical of untreated wood. www.itlas.com
